

Rev Up Your Taco Tuesday Celebration with Edible Bacon Taco Shells

Photo Credit: Dude Foods

You'll wonder how you ever ate tacos without them

If you're a lover of all things bacon, now is the time to be alive. We are in what some would call a Bacon Renaissance, but instead of Mona Lisas and Sistine Chapels, we're talking about things that are much, much tastier.

There is no shortage of interesting bacon concoctions these days, including jam, toothpaste, vodka, and – if you want to get your kids started early –flavored baby formula. But if you're looking for the crème de la crème of bacon goodies (no, not bacon crème brûlée, though that does exist), it may just be the woven taco shell.

The two most perfect foods on the planet may very well be bacon and tacos. And sure, you could (and should) add bacon to your tacos in order to make them that much better. But what if there was an easier way? That, my friend, is where the bacon taco shell comes in.

There's nothing wrong with traditional taco shells; after all, they've been getting the job done for centuries. But thanks to some modern-day ingenuity, there's now a superior alternative. Take Taco Tuesday to the next level with these babies:

Edible Bacon Taco Shell

- Preheat oven to 400 Fahrenheit
- Create a square weave of raw bacon slices (approximately seven slices each way, or 14 total slices). Place on a baking sheet.
- Bake for 15 minutes. Remove from oven; eliminate excess grease by patting down weave with a paper towel, then place an upside down bowl on top of the weave. Use this to trace and cut the square into a circular “taco” shape.
- Place two oven-safe glasses (or dishes) on the baking sheet. Balance a kabob stick across the two platforms. Drape bacon over the kabob stick, maneuvering it to hold form as a folded taco shell
- Return to oven and bake for an additional 10 minutes
- Let stand for several minutes before stuffing that sizzling creation with your favorite fixings!

Craving more? Head over to the Bacon Bash!

Come out to Esplanade Park in Fort Lauderdale for the 3rd Annual Bacon Bash on Saturday, October 8! This deliciously free-admission event will feature an assortment of vendors offering sizzling snacks, a DJ, activities for adults and children of all ages, and more! In addition to stuffing your face with a variety of treats, you’ll be able to vote for your favorite bacon eats.

VIP tickets are also available to those 21+ for $30 in advance or $35 day-of. Our VIP section will feature 10 drink tickets (for bourbon, spirits, or craft beer tastings), specialty seating options, and complimentary porky bites only available in VIP. Proceeds will benefit Riverwalk Fort Lauderdale and Covenant House Florida. You don’t want to miss this—get your tickets today!