PREPARE FOR UPCOMING KING TIDES

CITY OF
FORT LAUDERDALE

King tides have historically caused street flooding in low-lying areas of our community. The City uses tax dollars and stormwater fees to invest in long-term strategies to reduce the frequency, duration, and intensity of tidal flooding in vulnerable areas. These include elevating seawalls, installing tidal valves, and making drainage improvements. We also take proactive steps to prepare for the king tide season such as inspecting all tidal valves. We encourage our neighbors to prepare by:

- ✔ Reviewing flood safety tips
- ✔ Evaluating your property's readiness
- ✔ Reviewing your flood insurance policy

If you experience flooding on your street, make sure storm drains are not blocked. Rainfall concurrent with the high tide may cause some street ponding until the tide recedes. Remove waste carts as soon as possible once emptied or wait until your next scheduled collection day to put them out. Since we experience two tidal cycles each day, be aware of the timing of the high tides and how they may affect your travel plans. Avoid driving on flooded streets.

PREDICTED 2023 KING TIDES

Seasonal high tides known as king tides will occur through November:

October 15-17

October 26 - November 1

November 12-16

November 24-28

King Tide Reminders for Riverwalk Neighbors:

Pedestrians / Cyclists:

Be mindful of high tide times when planning walks or bike rides along the Riverwalk.

Boating Community:

Keep wake to a minimum to prevent wave overwash on to the Riverwalk.

Report Impassable Roads:
954-828-8000

ON THE WATER

FORT LAUDERDALE'S DEFINING CHARACTERISTIC

Known as New River Settlement before the 20th century, Fort Lauderdale became the final name for the City. The New River is a tidal estuary, not actually a river, but a channel composed of many tributary canals. The channel is connected to the Everglades through a series of man-made canals. The channel is entirely within Broward County.

When walking the north side of the New River at the western end, you first experience the Broward Center for the Performing Arts which joins with Esplanade Park, a grand location for special events and performances. Across the street is the Museum of Discovery and Science which features learning opportunities that cover a variety of subjects.

Folk history says that the New River appeared suddenly after a night of strong winds, loud noises and shaking ground, resulting in the Seminoles calling the river Himmarshee, meaning “new water.” This report is explained by the occurrence of an earthquake which collapsed the roof of an underground river (subterranean) and creating the New River.

Needless to say, the New River is a transportation hub to the many boats, yachts and commercial vessels that use it daily and provide an enormous economic engine to Fort Lauderdale, Broward County and South Florida.

Located in Downtown Fort Lauderdale along the Riverwalk, the water traffic entertains visitors and residents with a continuous parade along with the many opportunities to take a Water Taxi or Water Trolley ride, tour on the Carrie B or Jungle Queen, head out to fish or enjoy the ocean or even to take a tour of the more than 300 miles of navigable canals with 165 miles designated as residential canals — hence the referred title of Venice of America.

Water in this marine environment defines Fort Lauderdale and is known for hosting the largest boat show in the world. The Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show is scheduled from Oct. 25 to 29 this year and will again be spread across seven locations and feature six miles of floating docks. FLIBS delivers an economic impact that is approximately $1.8 billion in economic output through show purchases and expenditures; $710 million is estimated in sales by Florida companies and $85.8 million is generated in state and local taxes and more than $24.5 million in Broward County alone. This show is owned by Marine Industries Association of South Florida located on Riverwalk and the show is produced by Informa Markets.

The boat show draws in more than 100,000 attendees again boosting the local economy for purchase of meals, lodging, sales, and entertainment.

In our community, waterways are a feature in the City of Fort Lauderdale from the ocean to the channel and all that lies within. It is the source of pleasure, entertainment, jobs and a tremendous economic engine to our residents. Never take for granted the beauty of our home City and waterways and take the time to spend some time on the water.

FUN TIMES

THE RIVERWALK HOSTS A MULTITUDE OF EVENTS, THANKS TO OUR SPONSORS

As Riverwalk begins a new fiscal year, we take a moment to thank our partners and sponsors that continue to work with us and assure that the Riverwalk District grows and prospers. With gratitude I thank our team for always assuring us that the parks, greenspaces and activities are in the best order of business possible. I thank our outgoing board for their service in creating the vision to continue to grow the district and to welcome our incoming board members to further help in that creative process.

As custodians of the Riverwalk pedestrian walk as well as the many parks and greenspaces in the Riverwalk District, we continue to work with our governments and community to create an inviting environment to assure the highest and best use of this public land. These lush locations offer the opportunity for a quiet walk, shaded and with a grand view of the New River or activities that encourage fitness, dog training and more. The parks offer events to support local charity organizations as they raise funds, races for those who want to qualify for additional competitions or walks for those who want to participate. Food events, drinks of many varieties and games for children round out some of the activities as well.

The city hosts several events in Downtown, including the monthly Jazz Brunch and yearly events of St. Patrick's Day Parade and Festival, Downtown Countdown, MLK Parade and many more. As a community with great civic pride and a willingness to be inclusive, we are most fortunate to have places within our Downtown that can accommodate these kinds of events. Event hosts from all over love to come and use the unique areas available Downtown.

Infrastructure remains a concern of all, including but not limited to stormwater as well as failing seawalls. We work hand in hand with the City to identify and address those issues and continue to stay on top of the list of projects being done or planned. We use our resources to enhance the areas within our district by adding amenities such as art in public places, recycle bins, large public planters, the 9/11 Monument, Shippey House, exercise stations and even playground equipment. There are over 250 banners along the Riverwalk as well as more than 85,000 etched bricks celebrating life in a variety of ways.

We welcome our new board and officers and look forward to working with them in the upcoming year.

JACKIE KINDALL

FOUNDER AND CEO, KINDALL EVOLVE CONSULTING LLC

➊ Drawn to Florida by the sunshine and the ocean, I have been here for two years. Originally from California, I have also lived in New York and the Washington, D.C., area. I visited South Florida during the winters and would tell myself that I needed to find a way to live here. I do not enjoy being cold! Finally in February 2021, I made that dream come true.

With years of human resources and organization development experience, I started my own business, Kindall Evolve Consulting LLC, in 2016. I provide leadership/executive coaching and consulting services to help organizations transform and evolve to create inclusive work cultures.

People spend a lot of time at work and my goal is to create organizational cultures where people thrive. I am passionate about helping others grow and develop, especially those in leadership positions. I help good leaders become even better at leading people and companies. I enjoy providing new leaders with the tools and mindset they need to succeed in their new roles, as well as supporting leaders who are first-time executives and CEOs.

I like to travel to learn about other cultures and experience other ways of doing things. I also enjoy music, reading and a good glass of wine. I consider myself a life-long learner with a passion for diversity, equity and inclusion, leadership, emotional intelligence, neuroscience and more.

I joined Riverwalk because of its mission and the impact it has on me directly as a Downtown resident. I'm excited to be a member and look forward to being more involved in the community.

Members of Riverwalk Fort Lauderdale express their support and join us in our mission of building a vibrant community. Riverwalk supports Downtown's diverse, mixed-use community of arts and entertainment establishments along with business, residential, judicial, educational, and marine interests.

EXPLORING FORT LAUDERDALE

THE VENICE OF AMERICA'S AQUATIC BUSINESS HAVEN

Nestled in the heart of South Florida, Fort Lauderdale stands as a testament to aquatic beauty and is a thriving hub for water-related businesses. With its unbeatable combination of 3,000 hours of annual sunshine, year-round warm temperatures, a prime location and miles of waterways, the City has earned the moniker The Venice of America. From the Atlantic Ocean to the Intracoastal Waterway and our several rivers, the waterfront is never far from our hearts.

Follow us as we delve into the enchanting features that make Fort Lauderdale a haven for aquatic endeavors, as well as the upcoming developments that promise to shape its maritime future.

Jobs, jobs, jobs

The marine trade industry provides 121,000 middle class jobs in Broward County promoting boating lifestyles and the goods and services that sustain them, driving economic output to $9.7 billion in Broward County (Marine Industries Association).

Luxury along the waterways

The City's luxury real estate, gracing the edges of the Intracoastal Waterway and our more than 165 miles of scenic canals, forms a defining aspect of Fort Lauderdale's aquatic identity. Seasonal residents, drawn to the City's year-round pleasant climate and aquatic lifestyle, have cultivated an environment ripe for high-end water businesses to flourish. From yacht brokers to marine equipment suppliers, the maritime economy is replete with opportunities.

Embarking on new horizons: The Bahia Mar development project

In the spirit of innovation, the Fort Lauderdale Commission has given the go ahead for the Bahia Mar development project, a transformative endeavor that promises to elevate the City's maritime offerings. The project aims to reimagine the Bahia Mar Resort and Yachting Center into a world-class maritime destination by adding luxury residences and a new top-tier branded hotel, enhancing marina facilities, creating inviting public spaces and expanding accommodations for the Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show to solidify the City's position as a yachting haven and stimulate its water-related businesses.

The grand maritime spectacle: Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show

Fort Lauderdale's dedication to its maritime identity shines brightest during the annual Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show. This globally renowned event gathers water enthusiasts, industry leaders and curious visitors from around the world. The City's commitment to fostering this event's growth is evident, showing its unwavering support for the water business ecosystem.

The epitome of maritime charm

In conclusion, Fort Lauderdale's aquatic charm goes beyond its natural beauty and welcoming climate. It stands as a thriving hub for water-related businesses, drawing in residents and visitors who appreciate the allure of the sea. With ongoing developments like the Bahia Mar project, the City continues to build on its legacy as the Venice of America – a place where the waters weave tales of commerce, leisure and opportunity.

A sun-soaked paradise

Picture a destination where the sun bathes the landscape for a staggering 3,000 hours each year, casting a warm and inviting glow on all who visit. Fort Lauderdale's enviable climate sets the stage for an idyllic aquatic haven that beckons residents and tourists alike. With its perfect location at the crossroads of the Atlantic Ocean, the Bahamas and the Caribbean, the City offers a gateway to endless aquatic adventures.

A blend of comfort and excitement

Fort Lauderdale's waterfront charm is amplified by its 169 hotels that cater to an array of travelers. Whether one seeks relaxation, adventure, or a bit of both, the City's hospitality industry creates an impeccable blend of comfort and excitement. The allure of dining is enhanced by waterfront restaurants that offer not just delectable cuisine, but also breathtaking vistas, making every meal an unforgettable experience.

A maritime marvel: Port Everglades

At the heart of Fort Lauderdale's maritime vibrancy lies Port Everglades, an economic engine that powers not only Fort Lauderdale, but all of Broward County. With eight bustling cruise ports, Port Everglades ranks as the third busiest port in the world, welcoming an impressive four million passengers annually. It is the leading container port in Florida and the main seaport for receiving petroleum products. This bustling hub of commerce and recreation forms the backbone of the City's thriving water-related businesses.

DOWNTOWN FORT LAUDERDALE

A BEACON OF PROSPERITY

Vibrant downtowns are the heart and soul of cities, the energetic places where people come together to engage and connect. Every downtown has a uniqueness that sets it apart and that's true for Downtown Fort Lauderdale as well. So many activities are key to our identity: cruising our beautiful waterways, walking along the Riverwalk, dining on Las Olas, and enjoying an evening at the Broward Center, to name a few. This unique diversity is also true when thinking about the identity of our local economy.

In addition to being the soul of the community, downtowns elevate the financial wellbeing of entire regions. A new report by Walter Duke + Partners confirms Downtown Fort Lauderdale's status as one of Broward County's top three economic engines. With an annual impact of $35.7 billion, Downtown Fort Lauderdale is a leading driver of the local and regional economy, supporting 200,000 jobs throughout Broward County and the entire state. Its annual impact could only be matched if the Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show were to take place 20 times in one year!

Broward County's three leading economic engines are unique due to their direct proximity to one another. Downtown Fort Lauderdale, Port Everglades and the Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport (FLL) have a combined annual economic impact of $106 billion. Our region would not thrive without the collective success of all three and I'm proud to work alongside my partners at FLL and Port Everglades to move our community forward.

Our strong real estate development pipeline has been a powerful driver of Downtown Fort Lauderdale's success. Real estate and development in Downtown has a $5.3 billion annual impact to the local economy, a 21 percent increase from 2019 levels. With more than 40 new Downtown projects planned, development is driving Fort Lauderdale's evolution into a world-class urban center.

All this growth is creating new amenities and experiences for residents. The annual tax revenue generated by Downtown properties has tripled over the past decade to a current high of $138 million, creating opportunities for our local governments to reinvest in major public spaces and infrastructure projects.

Holiday Park, Huizenga Park Reimagined and Tunnel Top Park are just a few spaces that will benefit from this public space renaissance. When complete, Downtown Fort Lauderdale will truly have a world-class network of premier public spaces that rival most world-class cities. I can't wait to enjoy them all.

There is so much to be proud of in Downtown Fort Lauderdale thanks to our City's rise as a major economic engine and destination of choice. Whether walking along Riverwalk in the cooling shadows from new towers, or admiring our growing skyline from afar, Downtown Fort Lauderdale shines as a beacon of prosperity and a signal that our community is reaching new heights.

MARINE DOMINANCE

BOAT SHOW HELPS DRIVE FORT LAUDERDALE'S ECONOMY

Nestled in the heart of coastal Fort Lauderdale, the upcoming Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show from Oct. 25 to 29 promises to be a testament to maritime excellence. Beyond the awe-inspiring spectacle of boats, yachts and marine accessories, the show epitomizes the symbiotic relationship between community and commerce. Serving as a mecca for maritime enthusiasts worldwide, the event, which marks its 64th anniversary this year, proudly stands as the jewel in the crown of Fort Lauderdale — the undisputed yachting capital of the world.

From its origin in the 1960s, the Boat Show has undergone a remarkable transformation. What started as a modest assembly of yacht brokers at the Lauderdale Yacht Club has burgeoned into a global phenomenon, consistently reaffirming its position as the pinnacle of boating events across the globe. Every year, the show draws aficionados, industry stalwarts and newbies alike, captivated by the world of maritime wonders.

In a broader context, the boat show's significance is highlighted by the recent report from the Marine Industries Association of South Florida (MIASF). This data underscores the pivotal role of the maritime sector in Fort Lauderdale's economy. Responsible for generating a staggering 141,860 jobs across South Florida, the industry's impact is further evidenced by Fort Lauderdale's stellar performance in job growth, especially in trade, transportation and utilities sectors, outpacing many other metropolitan areas.

Florida's marine dominance is not limited to employment figures. The state holds a record for the most registered recreational boats in the U.S., boasting an impressive 1.2 million, excluding foreign-flagged vessels. Zooming into Broward County, 47,741 of those boats are registered here, offering the denizens of Fort Lauderdale a plethora of water-based recreational opportunities. This maritime prevalence accentuates the region's identity, making water activities an integral part of life and enhancing its attraction as a living and holiday destination.

Broward County's economy is thriving. The 2023 data reflects a commendable unemployment rate of 3 percent, a smidge better than Florida's average. This figure resonates positively, considering the expanding labor force of 1,102,534, an uptick from the previous year. However, it's essential to recognize that this economic prosperity isn't solely credited to the maritime sector. Multiple sectors, from professional and business services to leisure and hospitality, have demonstrated robust job growth, illustrating the region's diverse and dynamic economic fabric.

In essence, the Fort Lauderdale Boat Show is emblematic of the city's spirit — a harmonious blend of tradition, innovation and ambition. As the city gears up for this year's edition, it isn't merely about boats. It's about celebrating a rich legacy, fostering community ties and igniting economic vigor. For attendees, it offers an experience steeped in heritage and forward-thinking, mirroring the essence of Fort Lauderdale itself: a city that cherishes its past while confidently sailing into the future.

RENOVATING PARKING LOTS

PARKING IMPROVEMENTS THROUGHOUT FORT LAUDERDALE

The Transportation and Mobility Department is reinvesting in City assets by creating a program designed specifically to cater to the rehabilitation of our parking facilities. With the City owning more than 11,000 parking spaces, 45 lots and four garages, it was imperative to create a robust maintenance and beautification program to enhance the safety, functionality and the overall aesthetic of our City lots. The City is implementing a handful of projects to jump start our rehabilitation effort for parking facilities. The elements that are the focus of the improvements include but are not limited to:

Landscaping: Improvements include maintenance of existing landscaping, repair of irrigation systems, installation of new landscape elements to create a more consistent look and feel around the perimeter of the lots and replacing gravel and loose rocks within existing medians with stamped concrete and planters.

Drainage: It was identified that there were clogged drains within some of our lots. Improvements will include cleaning out existing drains, pitch adjustments and replacing the storm grates.

Asphalt repair: Asphalt milling and resurfacing for spot maintenance and full lot rehabilitation, pavement marking refurbishment and grade corrections as needed.

EV charging tie-ins: To adapt to the increase in demand for electric vehicles, we intend to Install EV charging tie-ins for future EV charging stations throughout the parking lots.

Signage/wayfinding: Installing parking wayfinding signage and upgrading parking monument signs.

New meter system: TAM is converting individual meters to a more streamlined parking permit process via parking kiosks and pay-by-phone instructional signage.

Safety improvements: Structural assessments and standard repairs are underway to ensure all lots remain safe and functional for our neighbors. Improvements include new stair railing, wheel-stop replacements and high-visibility safety signage.

Median improvements: We are increasing utilization of our lots by improving the turning radii, installing stamped concrete for beautification and electrical receptacle for special event usage.

Artwork/murals: Our staff is looking to further enhance the beautification efforts by incorporating artwork elements to the parking lots where applicable.

These parking improvement projects will be implemented throughout the City this year, at these locations:

- Venice Lot (248 S.E. 13th Ave. – Las Olas Shops)
- Pelican Lots (248 S.E. 15th Ave. Las Olas Shops)
- Commercial Road Parking Improvements (Commercial Boulevard Lots between NE 24th Terrace and the Intra-coastal Waterway)
- City Hall Garage (200 N.E. 2nd St.)
- Riverwalk Garage (150 S.E. Second St.)
- Fort Lauderdale Beach Park Parking Lot (651 Seabreeze Blvd.)
- Temporary Fire Station #13 (3109 Vistamar St.)

THRIVING ARTS COMMUNITY

AN INVITATION TO BROWARD COUNTY'S INAUGURAL STATE OF THE ARTS ADDRESS

As we welcome the arts season in our region, I'm excited to invite the community to the Cultural Division's inaugural State of the Arts address. Just as the State of the Union delivers a message about the current condition of the nation, our State of the Arts will deliver key information about our local creative economy as well as news, progress, and priorities for the upcoming year.

Please join us Thursday, Oct. 26, at 9:30 a.m. in the Mary N. Porter Ballroom at the Broward Center for the Performing Arts to hear exciting updates on the Cultural Division's recent and upcoming projects, learn the findings of the latest Arts and Economic Prosperity study and celebrate our community's achievements and path forward.

Speakers include Broward County Mayor Lamar Fisher and Senator Steve Geller, who will discuss the transformative power of the arts and the pivotal role they play in shaping the county's identity.

In addition to showcasing the achievements and contributions of the arts sector, we are also actively charting a course for its continued growth and development. This event couldn't come at a more crucial time, as the arts have played an integral role in bringing inspiration to Broward County residents during challenging times.

The State of the Arts address is not just a one-time event; it signifies a renewed commitment to fostering a thriving arts community in Broward County. The discussions and ideas generated here will lay the groundwork for future initiatives, ensuring that the arts continue to flourish and enrich the lives of residents for years to come.

As we take this exciting step forward, we invite everyone to join in the celebration of Broward County's vibrant arts scene. Mark your calendars for Oct. 26 and be part of the historic first State of the Arts address – an event that promises to reaffirm Broward County's position as a cultural epicenter for South Florida and beyond.

The event will begin at 9:30 a.m., with the address at 10 a.m. Complimentary parking is available in the A&E Garage, with valet parking available. Scan the QR code in the graphic to RSVP to the free event. We look forward to welcoming the community to this celebration of arts and culture in Broward.

THE ONE-STOP SHOP FOR ALL YOUR RENTAL NEEDS

From birthdays and weddings to graduations and baby showers, there are a lot of special moments in life worth celebrating. Yet, when it comes to the actual planning part of these celebrations, there's a lot to consider which can be daunting. Not everyone enjoys the planning process and who can blame them? It's a lot of work. But for those like Jeanna Handal, owner of Best Rental Service in Fort Lauderdale, event planning is where her talents truly shine.

"I've been throwing parties since I was honestly six or seven years old. It's just always been my biggest interest and my philosophy is life is only as good as your next big celebration," she said.

Even though Handal has been at the center of parties and celebrations all her life, it took her a while to find a career that best utilized her unique abilities.

"I actually went to school for recreational leisure services with an emphasis on special events. After getting my degree, I worked in many different aspects of the hospitality industry from working in a hotel to starting my own charcuterie business called The Broad and the Board. But none of them were right for me, which only made me realize what I didn't enjoy doing," said Handal. However, when she learned from a family friend that he was looking to sell his rentals business, her interest was certainly piqued.

"Our family friend Bob DeAngelo had originally owned Best Rental and when I was really searching for what I was going to do, I remember my dad always saying to me, 'Don't worry, someday Bob will retire, and you can buy Best Rental.'

"In September of 2022, Bob retired and that's exactly what I did," she said. Now, only a year later, Handal has not only found a business where she can put her unique talents to good use, but she also offers the best rental items for all kinds of celebrations at a fair price. From banquet tables and decor to food service items, Best Rental Service offers much needed rentable items for any kind of event no matter how intimate or grand. In particular, customers can rent a variety of items including tent canopies, tables, chairs, dance floors, portable bars, cooking equipment, buffet table service items and more.

Handal has set her sights higher than standard event rentals and hopes to expand her offerings to include rental items for larger scale themed parties and events.

"I want to someday have my own venue where I can offer specialized and themed rental items. So, if you're having a 70s themed party, I want to offer period piece furniture and décor for rent," she said. "I want to acquire unique vintage items so you're not just relying on getting a backdrop and some balloons to make your party or event festive."

ECONOMIC SNAPSHOT

A NICE SET UP FOR FUTURE ENHANCEMENTS TO DOWNTOWN

Downtown Fort Lauderdale continues to reach milestones with great ingredients to prosper for decades to come.

A recent report issued by the Downtown Development Authority stated that the economic output of our urban core was $35.70 billion supporting 199,171 jobs in 2022. In just real estate activity, the report indicated a total economic output of $5.33 billion with $138.2 million in property taxes being paid.

To give you some perspective, in 2010 the Broward County Property Appraiser recorded $49 million in property taxes from Downtown.

The area covers 2.2 square miles, hosts 22 percent of all employment in Broward County, and its economic output has increased 20 percent since 2019.

With this type of output, Downtown Fort Lauderdale is on par with Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport and Port Everglades at $37 billion and $33 billion pre-pandemic respectively.

The top 10 industries in Downtown by economic output are:

1. Air transportation
2. Real estate
3. Owner-occupied dwellings
4. Legal services
5. Retail-nonstore retailers
6. Insurance agencies and related activities
7. Management consulting services
8. Other financial investment activities
9. Other local government enterprises
10. Securities and commodity contracts brokerage

All this sets up nicely for future enhancements to the greater Downtown area both south and north of the New River; however, there will be some short-term lag as institutional finance maintains a “survive until 25” perspective.

Headwinds for commercial development play out in key areas, according to one developer: interest rates and their fluctuations remain key; upward pressure on other costs like property insurance; rising construction costs, though these have begun to settle; and higher capital requirements placed on institutional investors with the Fed tightening oversight of risk weighted assets.

Currently, there is delivery of 37,000 multifamily units in the region which is the most in our history. Beyond that, developers are looking for opportunities in retail, industrial and multi-family where land is available.

Office construction continues to have a Covid hangover and is reestablishing size and scope. Colin Connolly, president and CEO of Cousins Properties, suggested in a recent podcast that “trophy lifestyle offices” outperform “the overbuilt and under-demolished” broader office market.

It remains to be seen if back-to-work from Covid will have a lasting impact as employees continue to be called back. What is clear is that employers are reducing their physical plant footprint, some as much as 20 percent, while desiring increased amenities (trophy office).

In short, financial markets notwithstanding, look for a continuation of projects to be built, restaurants to open, amenities to compliment lifestyle and more individuals attracted to our exceptional location as we continue to be the place you never want to leave.

THE BUSINESS OF WATER

IT GOES DEEPER THAN YOU THINK

It's no surprise that Fort Lauderdale's business community is comprised of large and small companies that depend on water to thrive. With bodies of water in every direction, including the New River, Atlantic Ocean, Intracoastal Waterway and countless lakes and tributaries, our economy has grown and thrived because of this aquatic bounty with which we are blessed.

And all this water has naturally grown an economy reliant on it. Yet the number of water-dependent businesses is vaster than you may think. While the obvious, highly visible entities like marinas, yacht brokers and boat yards come to mind, there are hundreds of small businesses equally dependent on our area's waterways.

Together, all these companies are the driving force behind the marine industry's annual contribution of $18.5 billion in revenue and 142,000 jobs to the overall state economy. Broward County's marine industry alone account for $9.9 billion of this total.

So, who are these large and small businesses that contribute so greatly to the state's economic growth? You can find more than 400 water-related businesses spanning 122 different business categories in the South Florida Marine Directory. This yearly publication is published by the Marine Industries Association of South Florida (MIASF) and introduces readers to the MIASF-member businesses who make their livings from the water.

The latest directory is debuted at the Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show each year, where you can get your own copy. If you miss it there, the directory is also distributed by local marinas and marine businesses throughout the year. No matter where you are, you can always access the information online too.

While the directory is a handy resource to quickly find the companies that can help you solve a boating-related need, it is also a great educational tool. It demonstrates that our industry goes far deeper than the usual boat yards and yacht brokers that come to mind when you hear the phrase marine industry.

In one comprehensive place, you quickly discover that countless small businesses are a big part of our industry's annual economic contribution of revenue and jobs. From anchors to ZF gears, there's a company in the directory that can solve your boat-related needs.

Need to fit custom blinds for your boat? There are companies that can do that. Need crew and someone to manage payroll for them? You can find businesses that take those responsibilities off your plate. Tanks overdue for a deep clean? Keep your hands clean, there's a company that can take care of it for you. You get the idea.

There are hundreds of companies that solve the common and not-so-obvious needs of boats that frequent our waterways. And you can find them in the South Florida Marine Directory.

FORT LAUDERDALE YACHT TRENDS

THE YACHTING CAPITAL OF THE WORLD BOASTS BIG BUSINESS FOR BOATERS

WRITER MADELAINE K. BOYER

PHOTOS PROVIDED BY DENISON YACHTS

Fort Lauderdale is known as the yachting capital of the world. Even though many other international destinations have vied for this dazzling title, they have all fallen short of the South Florida city which is home to roughly 50,000 boats and sees more than more than 2,000 superyachts pass through its waters annually.

However, no one in this distinguished industry ever could have predicted the boom in sales experienced during Covid.

According to Boat International, there were more than 1,000 superyachts on global order books in 2022 – a rise of 24.7% compared to the previous year. Also, last year was the third consistent year of ordering growth, and industry experts expect this trend to continue in 2023.

“Demand definitely shot up during Covid,” said Bob Denison, yacht broker and owner of Denison Yachts.

“I think there were a lot of people who were on the fence about the whole crazy notion of buying a yacht and when Covid occurred, people were looking for a really cool, fun, safe thing to do outdoors and yachting was one of those things at the top of the list.”

Since that initial boom, sales in the premier yachting destination that is Fort Lauderdale have stayed steady with yacht buyers setting new trends when it comes to what they’re looking for in a yacht.

“The biggest trend we’re seeing in what people are looking for when purchasing a yacht is a lot more interaction with the water,” said Thom Conboy, North American sales director for Heesen Yachts.

“People are a lot more active today and want to do more than just sit on the back deck and eat dinner. They want to actually enjoy the water, take Seabobs and jet skis out, have slides off the back, and take their yachts to the beach clubs.”

One trend that hasn’t changed all that much though is the demographic of yacht buyers. This is no surprise, however, with most of the yacht sales done through high-end yacht brokers being anywhere between $20 million and $100 million on average for a yacht.

With that kind of sticker price, it takes a certain type of client to be able to afford the luxury of owning a yacht. “To afford this type of purchase, you would have either had to work your whole life, built a successful company and sold it, or something of that nature to generate the kind of cash flow where you can enjoy spending it. For that reason, the bulk of our buyers are somewhere between the ages of 55 and 75,” said Conboy.

Many high-end yacht clients are not local.

“We get quite a bit of clients who fly in from out of state and definitely a lot of people flying in from out of the country who descend upon South Florida to buy a boat,” Denison said. “Fort Lauderdale is called the yachting capital of the world for a reason because it really is home to more boats and yachts than any other city in the world.”

What Defines a Yacht?

The term “yacht” is often passed around somewhat casually when referring to any boat that seems larger than life. However, what actually makes a boat technically considered a yacht? Well, there are a few things that truly set the boats aside from the yachts and the superyachts apart from even the illustrious megayachts and gigayachts.

First, the easiest determining factor is size. Yachts can range from about 35 feet to up to 120 feet in length. Yet, anything from 120 to 200 feet would be considered a superyacht.

Even though most yachts for sale here in Fort Lauderdale are typically found somewhere in the yacht and superyacht sizing, there is an entirely different, more elite class of yachts – mega and gigayachts. For a boat to be a megayacht, it has to be more than 200 feet whereas boats reaching over 300 feet in length are referred to as gigayachts.

The other specification that sets a style of yacht apart from one another is, in fact, price. For most, when thinking of buying a yacht, superyacht or megayacht, price begins to seem inconsequential. But when understanding what classifies one yacht from another, price does impact the category in which each one falls. The smallest category of yachts can be purchased for anywhere between $100,000 to upwards of $10 million. Once you get into the larger class of yachts, the price goes up exponentially.

“If you take a 160-foot yacht, you’re not buying anything relatively new for under $30 million,” said Conboy of Heesen Yachts.

“Then if you go from a 160-foot boat to a 200-foot boat, it’s double the volume which means you’re now looking at over $100 million.”

Outside of those yacht classes, mega and gigayachts can be found in a price category reserved solely for only a small class of people with these yachts being sold in the $200 million to $800 million price range. 60

RENÉE K. QUINN

CHARCUTERIE AND CHEER

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE CREATIVE ALEXANDRA KAMPER OF KAMPER'S KITCHEN

WRITER RENÉE K. QUINN

Kamper's Kitchen is a small boutique catering company that specializes in gourmet charcuterie boards, gift boxes, grazing tables and hands-on workshops. All creations are thoughtfully curated and the perfect way to bring your guests together for any occasion.

Designed as either a cocktail hour snack or to supplement a meal, grazing tables are personalized for your event theme and include all of the beautiful serving platters, utensils, elevation, fresh greenery, florals and décor. Customize a brunch, lunch or cocktail-style menu with your choice of appetizers, salads, sandwiches, carved meats, seafood, specialty desserts and more. If you prefer to have something delivered or picked up, the to-go boards and gift boxes are perfect for boat rides, cocktail parties, holiday hosting, bachelorettes and everything in between.

I sat down with Alexandra Kamper, the owner and designer of Kamper's Kitchen for a conversation. Our interview has been edited for length and clarity.

What's the biggest risk you've ever taken?

Leaving my full-time events coordinator position of eight years at Hugh's Culinary to pursue Kamper's Kitchen full time. Not knowing if I would be able to build my own client base and stay busy enough to support myself throughout the year was one of my biggest fears. I took the leap of faith in October 2021 and word of mouth spread quickly. Before I knew it, I was busier than I could have ever imagined. Over the last two years, I have continued to build an amazing client base and have met so many wonderful connections along the way.

Who are your role models or mentors?

My dad would have to be my biggest role model and mentor. As a self-employed advertising photographer, he has taught me the meaning of hard work and the value in pursuing my passion, even if that meant ending another. Growing up around his styled photo shoots influenced my attention to detail and sparked my love for culinary styling and food photography. He has taught me so much about running a business on my own and how to juggle multiple hats on a daily basis. He's my first call when I am in a pickle and have locked my keys in my car at an event or accidentally forgot some key ingredients. His favorite phrase is "that's what dads are for!" and I would not be where I am today without him.

What does success look like for you?

Success to me is being able to wake up every day and do something that I love. It's the freedom of being able to evolve and grow my business while still achieving my personal goals. I have the privilege of working with clients on some of the most memorable and important occasions in their lives. Even after 16-hour days in the kitchen, it brings me so much joy to see guests' expressions as they walk through the door. That feeling right there is success to me.

What's the best book you've read this year?

"Salt Fat Acid Heat" by Samin Nosrat.

What's in your home bar?

All the ingredients for a dang good lychee martini and always a good Cabernet.

What music complements your style?

This is quite possibly the hardest question I've been asked in an interview. My style depends on how I am feeling on that particular day. Some days I'd describe it as a mix between Jack Johnson, Dave Matthews, Zach Bryan and Bob Marley. On other days, I could totally go Greta Van Fleet, The Beatles, Red Hot Chili Peppers and I never turn down a fun tropical house mix!

Fisher-Price® presents

Presented by

Joe DiMaggio
Children's Hospital

NOW - JAN. 15

Climb aboard and celebrate as the world's most beloved #1 blue engine rolls into MODS. Help Thomas the Tank Engine be a "really useful engine," as you explore the sights and sounds of the island of Sodor, including Knapford Station and Sodor Steamworks. Learn valuable STEM skills throughout the exhibit by building an intricate wooden train set, assembling a large train and navigating through Thomas' imaginary world. All aboard!

Exhibit included with admission.
